

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides materials and methods for the treatment of inflammatory bowel disease, such as ulcerative colitis, by administering to a patient a nicotine composition comprising an anti-depressant in an amount effective to alleviate symptoms of the disease.